FE college expands into India, as UCLan launches in Cyprus

1. From this September, the New College Nottingham International Lifestyles Academy, will provide technical education for up to 1,000 students.
2. The building of the “UK-style campus” will start immediately, with opening pencilled in for October. UCLan will assume responsibility for the operational management and academic control of all programmes.
3. A number of UK educational institutions have already opened sites in foreign cities, often with the support of UK education or outsourcing firms. The University of Nottingham started the trend in 2000 with a site in Malaysia; it launched a third campus, in China, four years later.
4. More recently Imperial College London unveiled plans for the construction of a medical school in Singapore.
